Early Times Report

JAMMU, Jan 16: The five days workshop on MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses), over the theme design development and delivery of e-content to train the trainers (tot) continued at Govt. College for Women Parade for the second day.

Principal Prof (Dr.) Chander Shekhar while inaugurating the workshop welcomed the participants and stressed upon the importance of e learning in the contemporary educational pedagogies.

Dr. J.N Baliya, Head & Associate Professor, Department of Education, Central University of Jammu was the resource person on day one of the workshop. He apprised the participants about the various Digital Initiatives of GOI in Higher Education.

Prof. Baliya encouraged the participants to build OPEN content which is usable by all and emphasized on non-violation of copyright act and discouraged plagiarism. During the sessions, he enlightened all on various Open Educational Resources (OER) that could be adapted in designing the courses in order to make it interesting and easier for students to comprehend.

All the sessions of the day were highly interactive as all the queries of 45 enthusiastic participants from different colleges of J&K were satisfactorily sorted by the resource persons. He concluded his session with the promise that in the upcoming sessions each participant will be enabled to open their accounts on media cloud and learn the art of designing e-courses.

REPORT ON 3- DAY WORKSHOP ON RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

3-day workshop on research methodology was organized by Govt. College for Women, Parade Ground Jammu, an Autonomous college with CPE status by UGC, from 30th January 2018 to 1st February 2018. Workshop was inaugurated by Chief Guest, Dr. Asagar Hassan Samoon, Principal Secretary to Govt. Higher Education, J&K. Guest of Honour, Dr. Zahoor Ahmed Chatt, Director Colleges, Higher Education, J&K was also present on the occasion. Welcome address was given by Dr. Hemla Aggarwal, Principal of the college. She said that Dr. Samoon, a revered personality has always shown great interest in research activities & encourage teaching faculty of college to involve in research activities which will give them insight to plan their lectures in a better way for the students. She also stressed upon the significance of Research in today's education system as it helps teachers to develop the requisite knowledge and skills to become effective classroom leaders capable of implementing the national reforming Higher education by developing scientific temperament in teachers as well as in students. Dr. Samoon, Principal Secretary too in his address stressed upon the teaching faculty to work hard and evolve a smart work culture for the betterment of student community.

The first session began with the lecture of Prof. Reicha Tanwar, Former Director, Women studies Research Centre, University of Kurukshetra. She spoke on "Feminist Research Methodology". She said that Feminist Research is exclusively concerned about various issues and challenges that the women are facing in male stream world. The objective of such research is to bring a catalytic change in society that would lead all of us to a new world of Gender equality. She also stressed upon the need to Reject Traditional Research methods based on assumptions of powerful mainstream at the expense of Women's dignity and recognition. The need of hour is to reconstruct domain of convenient research, where we see gender in new context with aim for positive social change. She compiled her Lecture briefing the participants about methods one should follow while doing research, such as, maintaining diaries, strong will power, consistency in work, study of History (Review of literature), infield work identification and understanding of facts in depth, to be unbiased, to set ideology, use tape record & camera etc.

Second Session started with the Lecture of Dr. Supran Kumar Sharma, Associate Professor, School Of Business, SMVDU, who spoke on the topic "Why Should I care About Research"? He told participants that everyone should involve in research if they have opted teaching as their profession because it will help them to keep themselves abreast with the contemporary world and keep their mental ability sharp. He advised the participants to be very wise in selecting their topic which should preferably be based on broad area. One should be very sincere while reviewing the literature because it consists of critical reading, evaluating and organising existing literature on the topic to assess the state of knowledge in the area. He also told research is not just about the collection of data though data collection is important, but it is simply part of a wider process – the research process. He further discussed 8 steps followed in research process which included selection of topic, reviewing the literature, developing your theoretical and conceptual frameworks, clarifying your research question, developing a research design, collecting data, analysing data, and drawing conclusions. He concluded his lecture by telling participants to relate their work to the research process which will allow them to develop & answer your research questions in a logical & systematic manner.

Third session of the day began with the lecture by Prof. Pamela Shingla, Department of Social work, Delhi University. She deliberated on the topic "Ethics & Management of Research". She started her lecture by giving some effective tips to the participants about how one should manage their research. She said two types of communication were significant to manage a good research - a. Communication between a scholar & guide, b. Communication with the people in the field which can help the scholar to collect data. For research, patience, will power, determination, consistency is a must for scholar to make research easy scholar should learn to manage papers rooster, files & fee slips till they face their viva-~~versa~~. She also inform the participants that the ideal thesis consist of 252 to 300 pages inclusive of Title cover, Index, Chapters, Page of Abbreviations used and Bibliography. She told them never to overlap their contents which will make their thesis sub stranded. One should also avoid too much of review of literature in methodology. She personally felt that every chapter should talk about 4-5 objectives it would discussed and the research should be objective centric. One should extensively use an operational definition in research study and should frame spontaneous questionnaires to create a story of data. For field work she advised that the research scholar should know well the local dialectic of the area where he/she has gone for collection of data. They should show keen interest in the lives of people on which their research project is and engage them in discussion to fetch information. For effective communication and true findings one should understand the experiences of target groups and this is only possible if you listen them and understand the challenges they face. These methods will surely not only make their research easy but even more commendable.

First session of the second day of workshop began with the lecture of Prof. Nilofar Khan, from Kashmir University who spoke on "Primary/Secondary data collection (Tools & Techniques)". She said that the task of data collection begins after a research problem has been defined and research design /plan chalked out. She defined Primary data as those which are collected a fresh and for the first time and thus happen to be original in character whereas Secondary Data have been collected by someone else and have already been passed through the statistical process. There are several tools & techniques with which Fourth session of the day started with the lecture on research methodology in science by Prof. S.K. Khosa, from Central University, Jammu. He defined research as means to find answers to the questions. Through research, new and original information about the world we live in, are obtained. Research is scientific and systematic search for truth about specific topic. Reviewing literature is important to understand to understand how others have approached or dealt with the problem. Researcher should collect data in an organized and controlled manner so as to arrive at valid decisions by analyzing data to the problem so that one could reach to appropriate conclusion. Proper planning is required to design research program and it should be highly ethical in its standards. He also informed participants about research methodology in science for e.g. adequate analysis for decision that a researcher needs, he should be clear with the findings he should have a justified conclusion and last but not the least his experience should be reflected in his dissertation.

The first session on the last day of the workshop, 1st February 2018, started with a lecture on "preparing of proposals" by Prof. Lokesh Verma, from Central University, Jammu. He said research proposal is generally divided in to two sections - (A) Introductory section (B) Method section. In the introductory Section, he discussed the different aspects of research i.e. Title of the research proposal, Statement of the problem, Review of related literature, Area of research, Objectives of research study, Hypotheses or questions underlying the study, Significance of study, Delimitations of the area under study. In Method Section he discussed about various aspects of methods involved in research such as Population and sample, Tools, Research Method, Analytical Procedure, Time Schedule, Budget and References.

Prof. Munish Sharma from SKAUST was the resource person for the second session after the tea break. He made the participants familiar with the analysis & parametric/non-parametric data by SPSS. He also talked about detailed framing of Hypothesis & different statistical test to be applied for testing the significance & co-relation of variables.

Last session was conducted by Prof. Vijay Shivgotra, Department of Statistics, University of Jammu. He talked about collection, representation, analysis and interpretation of data.

The chief guest of valedictory function was Director Colleges Dr. Zahoor Ahmed Chatt. Dr. Geetanjali A. Rana was the guest of honour. In this session a brief report of the workshop was presented, feedback was taken from the participants and certificates were distributed to the participants by the chief guest.
